

Summer Food Service Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) provides reimbursement to eligible sponsors supporting summer programs that serve children in low-income areas when school is not in session. These benefits are available through the California Department of Education (CDE), Nutrition Services Division (NSD).

The money received from the USDA allows sponsors to devote a smaller portion of resources to food-related expenses, freeing up funds that can be used for other activities.

The USDA reimburses programs for serving:

- Meals to children in low-income areas during summer months
- Snacks to children in low-income areas afterschool

All meals and snacks must meet the USDA's nutrition standards. Most meal service sites can provide up to two meals – breakfast and lunch, breakfast and supper, or one meal and a snack.

The following entities may be approved to sponsor the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP):

- Public or private nonprofit schools
- Public or private nonprofit residential camps
- Local county, state, federal government entities
- Public or private nonprofits located on college campuses such as Upward Bound Programs, Summer Bridges, or National Youth Sports Programs
- Private nonprofits such as food banks, boys and girls clubs, churches, etc.

Additional SFSP information is available on the CDE's Web page at <http://www.cde.ca.gov/ls/nu/sf/sfspinfo.asp>

Developed for the SNP Primer
Cal-Pro-NET Center at San Jose State University in conjunction with the California Department of Education
February 2016

This institution is an equal opportunity provider.